

SCENE IN DC

Sarah Tanguy and Theo Adamstein

Holly Marshall and Claudio Vasquez

Ronit Atlan and Jean-Louis Atlan

FOTOWEEK DC LAUNCH PARTY

THE PARTY: A slew of area photographers, gallery owners and cultural benefactors gathered to launch FotoWeek DC, a week-long festival of photography that will officially kick off in November. THE PLAYERS: Chrome Digital's Theo Adamstein, the mastermind behind the festivities, and wife Olivia, invited guests into their posh home as photographer Paul Fetters rallied support for the event. The Washington Project for the Arts's Kim Ward, the Cultural Development Corporation's Nadine Gabai-Botero and the American Society for Media Photographers's Mike Morgan all worked the room energized by the cause. BEST IN SHOW: The Adamsteins welcomed nearly 100 revelers, with the last leaving the casual cocktail fete long after the first arrived. —ANDREW GARDNER

Lynn Ackerson, Rick McCleary and Irene Owsley